City’s Drop-off Center adds Saturday hours

The City of Reidsville’s Material Drop-Off Center will be open Saturday mornings starting March 2, 2019.

The Drop-Off Center, located at 709 Marcellus Street, has been operating Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. but closed on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. As of March 2, the center will open from 7 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Occasionally, the center may have to be closed, depending upon staff and equipment availability. We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause, but the Rockingham County Landfill is open Saturdays until 12:30 p.m. as an alternative.

The facility accepts computer equipment, including laptop and desktop computers, monitors, printers and scanners as well as used motor oil, cooking oil and grease along with used motor oil filters. Residents may also drop off construction and building materials used in small scale remodeling jobs. This service is not meant to be used by contractors or commercial builders.

A new part-time position is being hired to help open the Drop-Off Center on the weekends. The center has been operating as an unmanned facility for use by City residents. The two current Public Works employees at the station are primarily responsible for operating and maintaining the transfer station to facilitate the transferring of City solid waste to the Rockingham County Landfill. The new part-time position will monitor the dropping off of materials in the box provided by the City and assist residents with questions.

“The City realizes that some residents are unable to get to the Drop-Off Center during the week,” said Public Works Director Chuck Smith. “We have been working on a solution that would allow us to provide this service on Saturdays. We hope that that will meet the recycling needs of our citizens for those items that can’t be disposed of otherwise.”
