

The Reidsville City Council's Regular Monthly Meeting for Tuesday, April 14, 2020 will be livestreamed as cited on the Meeting Notice. In addition, citizens can view the livestream via the City website, reidsvillenc.gov, on the City Council's page, Minutes & Agendas.

A few seats will be available in the Council Chambers for the public on a first come basis, but the social distancing guidelines of people being no closer than six feet and gatherings of no more than 10 people will be followed. Up to five people will be allowed in the lobby to watch the meeting and/or livestream and any other overflow will be allowed in a separate City Hall lobby to watch the livestream.

Citizens interested in attending the meeting or watching the livestream at City Hall should come to the front door closest to the Police Department to gain entry into the building. The door will be open by 5:30 p.m. While these efforts are being made to ensure people can have access to the meeting, residents are encouraged to stay home and watch the livestream if they have that capability.
