Reidsville in top 30 “Best Towns” to live In the State by Rent Application.com

The City of Reidsville has been ranked 30th in the “Best Towns to Live in North Carolina 2016” by the website, Rent Application.com. Chapel Hill took the top spot, followed by Boone, Lincolnton, Hickory and Concord in the top five. Nearby Burlington came in 12th, while Eden was 38th.

Diane Sawyer, President of the Reidsville Chamber of Commerce said, “We are proud to be a part of this wonderful city. As a native to Rockingham County, it’s a great accomplishment that Reidsville is ranked 30 out of 336 cities. We are currently working with the City of Reidsville on continued efforts to bring more industries into our area. The Chamber’s main role is to be an advocate and a voice for the business community to make our city even stronger.”

Released in late May, the report combines data from the US Census, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Education Rankings, Citizen Satisfaction ratings, Natural Language Analysis and Rent Application.com’s own research to create a ranking of the best places to live in North Carolina.

According to Lindsey Maddox, Media Director for Rent Application.com, the website is devoted to all things real estate. The website’s rankings and research have been seen on USA Today, Fox News, UPI, TeleMundo and hundreds of local media outlets across the United States. In notifying the City of the ranking, Maddox said, “This is a true achievement and is a testament to government and citizens working together to create a great place to live.”

The description of Reidsville on the site reads:

“Once referred to as Wright’s Crossroads because of its proximity to Virginia to the north, Reidsville is well-situated between major connecting points throughout the state. Though throughout its long history, Reidsville has in the past suffered economic hardship, today, the city is booming. Reidsville is able to trade easily with larger nearby cities and reap the benefits. The city’s population is roughly 14,520.”
